

Extracts of The Bullitt Pioneer

PREFACE

In March 2000, I began a project to extract an index of names published in the turn of the century editions of the Bullitt Pioneer Newspaper. Microfilm of these early newspapers was available at the Ridgeway Memorial Library in Shepherdsville. I first envisioned strictly an index of names only. After working through several editions I realized that the style and content were unique and I started over with the intent of using a line or two from the articles. Later, wanting to include even more of the content I started the project a third time including significant articles. Hundreds or thousands of hours later, I have this finished product.

I have tried to include every piece of information that would be of interest to a genealogist or local historian, using "article", "etc" or "highlights only" for items not typed in its entirety, especially in wedding descriptions or flowery obituaries. Omitted are most state-wide or national political items.

The images on the microfilm range from fair to completely unreadable. Many were faded, torn, wrinkled and stained. I can't help but wonder how many went through our famous Shepherdsville floods. The issues are scattered. Several years had only a few issues available.

The spellings of names often varied with the author. I have no idea as to the correct spelling of many of the names. I typed them as they were printed.

The quality of the images caused many questions. A smudge, wrinkle or hole created gaps. Ink-filled letter led to difficulty with e-a-o-c, u-n, i-l-t, R-B-H. Many looked so much alike. You may want to look closer at names with these letters. Although diligent in the preparation and editing of this project, there may be many instances of error. If you have questions, the microfilm is available at the library.

Dates are entered in order as they appear on the microfilm. Some issues are out of order. I have included date published as well as the original page number with the articles to make it easier to find if you wish to look at the microfilm.

I have enjoyed reading and typing the newspaper into the database. My hope is that someone, somewhere will enjoy the results of my many late night sessions at the computer.

Levi House of near town has sold his dairy herd of 28 cows to an Ohio purchaser. (But later reported that the deal was declared off because they could not be shipped out of state without the tuberculin test.) State veterinarian tested the herd of R. W. Cates recently and ordered one killed and another one quarantined. Quite a number of dairymen are anxious over the tuberculin test order. From the E'town Mirror.

Trouble at Brooks. 15 year old son of Abe Brooks, who formerly ran a black smith shop at Brooks, came up there last week for some tools that had been left behind in a building belonging to A. E. Funk. Mr. Funk thought the lock had been broken and had the boy arrested. Tried before Judge Daniel, fine one cent and costs. Attachment levied on the tools to secure the payment of debts due several parties in that neighborhood. The "Abe" part is all right, but did you ever before hear of a man with Jewish blood in his veins answering to the name of Smith?

Tom Trunnell was here Wednesday on business. He says Bardstown Junction has taken a new lease on life, has the finest boulevard in the county, and business is booming all along the line.

Narrow Escape

Considerable excitement was caused late yesterday afternoon, by a runaway on Railroad street. Miss Blanche Jeffries, Miss Nannie Ree Thompson and a little baby of Charley Jenkins were driving along in front of Mr. Patterson's, when the horse became frightened by a dog which ran at him. He immediatly became unmanagable and dashed down the street, overturning the buggy and throwing out the occupants.

The 1910 Bullitt Pioneer

Fortunately, he ran down the unpaved street between the railroad and the Smith Hotel, where the soft mud broke the force of the fall, and doubtless, prevented more serious injuries. Beyond a regular mud bath, Miss Blanche and the baby escaped unharmed. Miss Thompson was not quite so lucky. She received a slight scalp wound, and her left elbow was dislocated. She was taken immediately to Dr. Ridgway's office and the injuries attended to.

Neither the horse nor the buggy was much hurt.

August 26, 1910 (Pg. 1)

Mr. H. F. (Frank) Troutman, president of the Bullitt County Bank and head of the mercantile firm of Troutman Bros, died last Friday after an illness of about six months of hardening of the arteries. He was born in 1844 and would have been sixty-seven next April. He was the second child of Michael and Sophia Troutman. Survived by his mother, three brothers and four sisters. Went into the Union Army at sixteen, he made a good soldier. In 1873, the firm of Troutman Bros. was formed and has never changed hands or name. On Sunday the remains were taken to Louisville on a special train and buried in Cave Hill Cemetery. Funeral services conducted by DeMolay Commandery and was very impressive.

Mr. Henry J. Barnes, one the oldest and most highly respected citizens of this county died at his home in Mt. Washington August 15, 1910 from the infirmities of old age, as he was about 89 years old. He had been married twice, his first wife was Mrs. Susan Hall Snapp and his second was Miss Mary Cornell, who died a few years ago. He is survived by three children, Mrs. Mollie Coyle and Mr. Charles Barnes, of Louisville, and Miss Ella Barnes, one brother, Mr. Wm. Barnes, of Owensboro and four grandsons. The funeral was preached to a large audience of relatives and friends, by his pastor, Rev. J. C. Brandon, at the Methodist church of which he had been a member for sixty years. Mr. Barnes had been a man of great mechanical ability and unusual energy up until the last few years, since the infirmities of old age confined him to his room, but he accepted his condition with beautiful resignation, being always bright and cheerful.

W. T. McCrocklin (age 76) , of Mt. Washington, died at his home Aug. 12, 1910. Four years ago he had been stricken with a paralytic stroke and has been nearly invalid ever since. Born in Spencer County, near Taylorsville, and at the close of the Civil War, in which he served under Joe Wheeler in the Confederate Artillery, he located at that place. Survived by his widow, who was Mrs. Kate Brown Jones, one son, W. A. McCrocklin, one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Ellwanger of Chicago and two step-children Mrs. T. B. Rouse and Mr. George Jones of High Grove. Funeral by the Rev. B. F. Adkins at the Baptist Church. Buried in the cemetery in Mt. Washington.

John Schneider, aged sixty-eight years, died last Thursday following the shock of an operation for stomach trouble. He was a harness maker, in business for nearly fifty years on Market Street, between Floyd & Brook. He was a native of Germany. Survived by wife, six sons and two daughters. He had many friends and customers in Bullitt County.

Charles Neville Buck, author of his first long novel, The Key to Yesterday, visited his parents in Louisville.

Centennial year of Little Flock Baptist Church was fittingly celebrated.

Last Saturday was an ideal day and several hundred people, old and young, assembled in the quaint old church to enjoy the exercises arranged for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Little Flock. First in order after divine service, conducted by that grand old soldier of the cross, Rev. W. E. Powers, came the reading of the history of the church.

In 1810, the church was admitted to Long Run Association. It had been previously organized with twenty-two communicants, presumably by Rev. Moses Pierson, then pastor of Cox's Creek church in Nelson County. We have not the names of the first members, but the first record reads: "Met on Saturday before the 4th Lords day in August, 1810 and after worship proceeded to business." They put the Lord first. Then they received seven members by letter and experience. The first church house was a stone building, one and one-half miles east of the present edifice, and near the junction of Penn Run and Cedar Creek. Here Moses Pierson labored for perhaps fourteen years, and many, both black and white, were added to the church. For in the Church of Christ, there was neither bond nor free and the negroes enjoyed all the privileges of church members except voting, and we often see master or mistress and slave received together into the church. But we see them displaying their native weaknesses and subject to discipline many times. In 1813, Bro. Bob secluded for stealing. 1814, Bro. Charles disciplined for riding a horse without permission, and another excluded for behaving disorderly at a corn shucking, another for stealing a penknife, a sister secluded for stealing soap and flax, a sister excluded for taking a ribbon from Peter Smith's store and whipt by law another for insolence to his master. And today, we see members stealing reputations and no discipline administered. But the white members were also required to walk circumspectly, and a white sister was excluded for telling falsities, another for dancing, and a brother for speaking disrespectfully of a sister and her family. Many brethren for indulging too freely in spirituous liquor.

Among the early members were ancestors of our most prominent families. Samuel Simmons, Abraham Fields, Thos. Walls, Jas. West, Thos. Sanders, John Beckwith, Elizabeth Rogers. Later, John Holsclaw, Mrs. C. E. Bell, Dr. Ireland. Of a long list baptized in 1840, but one lives today, Mrs. Margaret Bates, nee Wells, who is now 87 years of age and who attended the centenary, the object of much attention.

After the removal of Rev. Pierson in 1825 to Indiana, Rev. Robt. Gailbreath became pastor and served some 25 years. In 1848, Dr. J. A. Ireland was ordained and later served as pastor several years. Rev. R. A. Beauchamp served as pastor several years in the 50's, then Rev. G. W. Robinson and J. B. English. During which time the church prospered and we find the brethren attending to the Lord's business in the church. There is a break in the record from 1837 to 1839, during which time the brick church must have been built, as there is no record of it later, but in 1844, the legislature passed an enabling act authorizing and consenting to the conveyance of the stone church to Benj. Summers in consideration of a tract of one and one-half acres, on which the present church stands.

The congregation assembled last Saturday no doubt represented quite a contrast to the one first gathered in 1810, but they listened to the same gospel preached. Brother W. B. Powers presided. W. J. Bell, in a happy way delivered a cordial welcome, the response being by Bro. Powers. Dr. Holsclaw read the history. A poem was read by Mrs. Holsclaw. Dr. W. J. Holtzclaw preached a powerful sermon the "The Three Cardinal Elements in Christianity", followed by Mr. Moody in a impressive talk on "Why I am a Baptist". The we adjourned for dinner, and the bountifully spread table was a goodly sight, surely no one went away hungry. In the afternoon, Dr. J. W. Porter delighted a large congregation with a masterly address on "the Debt the World owes to Baptists." All who were Baptist felt proud of the fact. Saturday evening, Rev. Vanarsdale, a former pastor, preached.

Sunday morning, we were delighted with a sermon by Rev. W. E. Powers on "Be Ye Steadfast". It was as the parting words of one on the borderland of eternity and had effect as such. Then the Sunbeams rendered a program quite pleasingly and an offering was made for the band. In the afternoon, the WMU of Little Flock held a meeting which was addressed by Mrs. Bell Moorman and Miss Leachman, city missionary of Louisville. A very pleasing feature of the Sunday Service was the singing of the quartet from Shepherdsville, Messrs Lindsay Ridgway, Hon. Robert Zimmerman, Mrs. Chas. Bridwell, Mrs. Frank Bell and in the afternoon, they sang again with Joe Brooks taking the place of Mr. Zimmerman. Mrs. W. J. Holtzclaw also sang beautifully, "I Want to Go There". It was a great occasion, the memory of which will reach far into the new century. Mrs. J. R. Holsclaw.

In our report on the centenary of Little Flock, we had to necessarily omit many interesting points for lack of space, but should have stated that the original ground for Little Flock (on which the original stone church stood) was given by Benjamin Summers, grandfather of Mrs. M. E. Balee. He was a member of the Church of England, but his wife a Baptist and the county record shows that in May 1813, it was conveyed to John Beckwick by Benjamin Summers for the use of the Baptists one week each month and any other preacher or denomination the remainder of the month.

Article - The abutments for Bullitts Lick bridge are about the rottenest specimens of concrete ever seen in the county. Judge Daniel says not enough time to harden yet, etc. etc

Teachers institute met. Miss Jennie Carpenter, county superintendent, has every reason to congratulate herself and the teachers of the county on the success of her first institute. These institutes never accomplish all the good possible, for there are always a few rattle-brained teachers (?) who either think they already know it all, or whose mental capacity is so limited they are unable to acquire any further knowledge, even by absorption. Those teachers who did take an intelligent part in the exercises certainly were benefitted, and probably more so from the fact that they were not intimidated nor overawed by the presence of a strange instructor, who is supposed to know it all. Prof. Hancock and Prof. Campbell discharged the duties of their position with credit to themselves and satisfaction of the teachers. Miss Edith Hancock, Dr. Bogges and Prof. Cherry thanked.

Carnegie Hero Funk Commission awarded silver medal and $1000 to I. Wood Miller for saving a life.

Pittsburg, Nov. 1. - The Carnegie hero fund commission has announced the recognition of fifty-eight more heroes over territory extending from Massachusetts to Southern California. As always, in comparisons of deeds of valor, Kentucky is at the front or thereabouts. The hero commission finds no more thrilling deed then that of I. Wood Miller, a liverman of Waterford, KY, who on February 23, 1909, after nightfall, saved John H. Eggan from drowning in the waters of Brashear's Creek at Taylorsville. To the extent of a full thousand words, the commission formed by Andrew Carnegie to hunt life savers, talks of the heroism of Miller.

The commission goes on to tell how Eggan, who was one of the mounted rescuers in this time of flood, was swept from his horse and clung to a lamppost until cramp overtook him, how he then shinned up the post out of the reach of the water, still crying for help.

Miller had made an attempt to reach him with his horse, but finding that his horse could not stand against the current, he abandoned the animal and struck alone toward Eggan on the lamppost. He was compelled to rest in a tree on the way, but he finally got within speaking distance of Eggan and encouraged him not to give up.

No one would come to Miller's help with a rope for Eggan, and finally after many tries, Miller succeeded in getting a piece of fence lodged against the post which held Eggans, and he was finally rescued. It took Miller an hour and a quarter to effect the rescue.

The hero commission directs that a silver medal be given I. Wood Miller and that $,1000 be given him to be applied toward the purchase of a farm or in any other manner that he may desire, providing that it meets with the approval of the executive committee.

Of the rescues from death or the attempts, seven were from railroad trains or street cars, nineteen from drowning, one from a runaway horse, eight from suffocation in gas producers or wells, twenty from death in mine disasters, two from fire and one from shooting.

Mrs. Ellen Greenwell, who departed this life on October 7, 1910, was born on January 7, 1832, making her 78 years and nine months old at her death, which occurred within a few miles of her birth place, and from which she never lived over five miles. Her long and useful life was spent in this one community. She has as her descendants and family relations two brothers, Capt. J. Lan Lee of Columbus, KY, and the Honorable Wm. Jeff Lee, of Bullitt County, KY; two daughters, Mrs William Hardy of Pitts Point, KY and Mrs. S. M. Miller, of Missouri, and three sons, of whom two live here in Kentucky and one in Missouri. Her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren made her the head of four generations.

Her maiden name was Lee, a daughter of Robert M. Lee, deceased, of this county, and all direct descendants from the Virginia family of Lees. She began her early childhood when Kentucky was a border and frontier state. The Indian's wild whoop had scarcely died away when she was born, and this great Nation of our was then nearly all east of the Alleghany Mountains. No ocean steamers, no railroads, no telegraph lines, no sewing machines, no telephones, no phonographs, no automobiles, no birdman flying through the air; yes, all these wonderful and useful discoveries and inventions, and a thousand others, were not yet dreamed of.

In 1847, she was married to Robert Greenwell, no less a gentleman than she was a lady, and it is very natural to believe that she made a good and faithful wife and a noble mother. Her natural good sense, her uniformly generous and kind nature caused her to be loved and esteemed by all with whom she came in contact.

She became a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church over 40 years ago and lived and died a consistent christian.

She was the mother of a large, harmonious and loving family. Not a single member of her family even gave their parents any cause for trouble or grief. She was always uniformly kind and gentle, but was very firm in her convictions. She was charitable and loved her neighbors, friends and the poor. The writer, when a small orphan boy, found in aunt Ellen Greenwell, a home and a mother, and much of his life has been shaped by the better traits of her life. It can be said of her, truthfully, that her good deeds in life will live after her. Signed, H. J. G.

Copied from E'Town News. Sixty-five years of married life broken ruthlessly asunder by the death of Mrs. Lucy McGinnis, age 85, the beloved wife of J. W. McGinnis. She died Sunday morning at the family residence on Mile Street in this city after three weeks illness with pneumonia. From the incipency of her sickness, Mrs. McGinnis' death was almost daily expected as it was known that a woman of her age and frail constitution could not withstand the ravages of such a dread disease. The end came peacefully with all the members of her family gathered about her dying bedside. She was Miss Lucy Sandifer, born in Marion County, married J. W. McGinnis at age 20, who survives her. He is two years older than she was. About 33 ? years ago moved to this city (E'Town ?). Funeral services by Rev. C. A. Humphrey, pastor of the Methodist Church. Buried in city cemetery. Also survived by seven children, George, James and John McGinnis and Mrs. Lizzie Maraman, of Shepherdsville, Mrs. ? Clark, Mrs. Belle Clark, Mrs. Lula Powers.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Miss Willie T. Harned and Mr. Pope Harned, which was solemnized at the Boston Christian Church Wednesday afternoon. Miss Stella Harned, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the little Misses Lovelace, Hill, Sprigg and Stringer were flower girls. Mr. Marvin Harned, cousin of the groom, was best man and Messrs Willie F. Troutman, Ray Troutman, Albert Barnes, and Edward Crow acted as ushers. Miss Lulu Lovelace played the wedding march. The bride was given in marriage by her father, ceremony performed by their pastor, the Rev. A. Campbell. The happy couple were recipients of many handsome presents among which were a number of costly pieces of silver and cut glass. The couple left for an extended trip south.

The building of the sewer in Shepherdsville will have to be postponed until spring, as it is now too late to tear up Main Street. This will be disappointing to everybody, but more so to C. L. Croan than anyone else as he worked hard and (looks like) subscribed liberally. "Cousin Clarence" is one of our most liberal and public spirited men, and a hustler from away back. By his energy and judgment, he has made a success of life, and is yet a young man. The sewer will be built in the spring without fail. Don't worry, "Coz".

Wm. Troutwine Killed by George Moore in a dispute over cattle. Wednesday afternoon, George Moore shot Wm. Troutwine with a single barreled shot gun and he died within a few hours thereafter. Moore was at once arrested and lodged in jail. Troutwine, in company of Lewis Clayton (colored) had gone to Moore's place to get a cow he had on pasture there. After getting the cow, they met Moore with a wagon load of corn. Their talk soon became angry, hard words were passed, and reaching down in his wagon, Moore got a shot gun and fired. The load of shot struck Troutwine at the top of the right leg, almost completely severing the femoral artery. Troutwine walked a few steps and sat down while Clayton ran across the field to the home of Jas. Miller Jr, who telephoned Dr. Bates. As soon as possible, the wounded man was removed to Mr. Miller's, and everything possible done, but without avail. The unfortunate man received his death wound within a few steps of where he had been born and reared. Funeral services at the Baptist Church by Rev. S. P. Martin. Remains laid to rest at Bullitts Lick Cemetery.

A Christmas Greeting, poem by Mrs. Ida B. Holsclaw.

Capt. James W. Ridgway is very ill at the home of his son Dr. S. H. Ridgway and his condition is very critical. His health has been bad all winter, and he had a hard fall a little over a week ago, from which he seemed to recover, but his feebleness and great age doubtless accentuated the after effects of the shock to his nervous system. His children were notified at once, and have all been here.

While on his way to the depot, Monday morning, Harris Brooks badly hurt by mail sack being thrown from train. His injuries were tended by Dr. Bates and are not thought to be serious.

Mrs. Eliza Moore was born July 22, 1827, died Dec. 18, 1910. She was the daughter of Richard and Rebecca Skinner, who were among the first settlers of Bullitt County. She was married to Levi Moore in January 1850. To this union were born two daughters and six sons, only four of whom survive her. One son, Thomas Moore, died Aug 28, 1910. Her daughter, Mrs. Muss, died Dec. 14, just four days before her death. She lost her husband in 1870. She had united with the Methodist Church south very early in life in the grove where Mt. Eden church now stands, under the ministry of Bro. Scoby.

Four additional young women vie for prize in contest. They are Alma Beard, Elsie May Duffield, Pansey Griffin, and Geneva Swearingen.
