AUTHOR FAIRE SHOWCASES LOCAL WRITERS & PRESENTS WRITING WORKSHOPS

SHEPHERDSVILLE, KY - A number of local authors and readers will gather at the Ridgway Memorial Library in Shepherdsville on Saturday, October 14th from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM for Bullitt County Library’s 6th Annual Author Faire. The event provides an opportunity for local authors to interact with the community and promote their works. This is also a great time for the public to ask established authors about their work, their process, and their advice for getting published. Light refreshments will be provided for the public throughout the day.

This year’s event will feature a special storytime session with children’s author Janet Givens (Peggy Pelican books) and two writing workshops:

- Opening Lines with Leah Pugh | 10:00–11:00 AM
- Translating Pop Culture into Sellable Books Workshop with Bertena Varney | 2:00–3:00 PM

Author Faire will also feature public readings from the Library’s 2017 Writing Contest winners and honorees. Authors writing in a number of categories—including memoir, history, self-help, cookbooks, mystery, romance, science fiction, fantasy, Christian fiction, young adult fiction, middle-grade fiction, and children’s picture books—will be present.

The Ridgway Memorial Library is located at 127 N. Walnut Street in Shepherdsville, KY. For more information on attending authors and events, please visit www.bcplib.org/authorfaire or contact the BCPL Outreach and Programs Department at 543-7675 ext. 5.
